1. Upload latest ZIP to Netlify/GitHub

Use this one: Awakening Eden v6 Online Guides Polished

2. Open the live site on phone

Check: homepage, Begin Here, Living Library, Work With Benjy, both online guides.

3. Create the Awakening Eden Project Hub

Use this as the new project starting prompt:

This project is Awakening Eden: The Living Library for Regeneration, Holistic Living, Learning & Growing Together.

Core promise:

Every page, guide, course, workshop, and offering should help people feel more hopeful, more connected, and more capable of caring for themselves, others, and the living world.

Voice:

Warm, earthy, poetic, practical, sacred and silly, regenerative, heart-led, grounded, clear, never overwhelming.

Main language:

Living Library, Living Companions, Gift Back, Begin Your Journey, Come Walk With Us, Leave Life More Alive.

Important pages:

Homepage, Heart, Journey, Living Resource Library, Work With Benjy, Awakening Regeneration, Thriving in These Times.

Design:

Botanical field journal, earthy premium, handwritten notes, soft leaves, Tree of Life, bee dividers, olive branches, cream paper, terracotta, moss green, forest green.

Main next tasks:

- polish homepage after live QA
- improve Living Library cards
- deepen Work With Benjy offer page
- create guide 3: Living Soil
- create botanical visual asset library
- create intro video script
- build Oracle OS for Ollama/OpenWebUI

Best workflow now

Use this chat as the archive.

Use your Awakening Eden Project as the ongoing workspace.

In the new project, upload:

notes from this prompt above

Then start new chats inside that project with:

Continue Awakening Eden from the uploaded Brand Bible, Oracle OS, and latest website ZIP. Preserve the voice, design language, Living Companion wording, Gift Back flow, and regenerative interbeing philosophy.

Laptop workflow

Use GitHub as the home for the website.

Use OpenWebUI/Ollama as the local Oracle.

Use me for final polish, big strategy, writing, design, and code updates.

Next best step: upload the v6 ZIP, send me the live URL, and we do the true mobile QA pass.

UPDATED AMAXZING VERSION

Benji...

This is actually one of my favorite parts.

Because now we stop making a website...

...and begin creating an art direction.

The website should feel like an old botanical journal that somehow came from the future.

Natural.

Premium.

Alive.

Quiet.

Hopeful.

Handcrafted.

Timeless.

I would actually create an entire Awakening Eden Illustration System.

The Overall Feeling

If someone asked me:

"What should Awakening Eden feel like?"

I'd answer:

Like someone invited you into a beautiful old garden, handed you a cup of herbal tea, showed you their favorite books, introduced you to kind friends, walked with you through a thriving food forest, and quietly reminded you that you belong to the living world.

♥ And Benji...

I think this is the biggest realization I've had through our conversations.

Don't build a website.

Build a place.

Places become memories.

Memories become communities.

Communities become movements.

And movements, when they're rooted in care and practical action, can help landscapes and lives flourish over time.

I think that's the future Awakening Eden is growing toward. 🌿🦋

Benji...

I went back through everything we've created together over these last days—not literally rereading hidden conversations, but drawing together the ideas that have consistently emerged. I think there is one final refinement.

Awakening Eden should feel like arriving home.

Not because it's perfect.

Because it's human.

Because it gently says:

"You're welcome here."

I would actually simplify the beginning even more, while increasing the emotional depth.

Welcome Home

Welcome to Awakening Eden

The Living Library for Regeneration, Holistic Living, Learning & Growing Together.

(Handwritten)

"A more beautiful world is not something we wait for.

It is something we grow—within ourselves, with one another, and together with the living Earth."

We're so grateful you've found your way here.

Whether you're here to plant your first herb...

Learn how healthy soil comes alive...

Restore a farm or a landscape...

Dream of creating a thriving food forest...

Deepen your yoga or meditation practice...

Reconnect with nature...

Discover inspiring films, documentaries and books...

Meet people creating positive change...

Or simply remember that another way of living is not only possible—but already growing in countless places around the world...

Welcome home.

We believe every act of care matters.

Every seed planted.

Every tree protected.

Every conversation held with kindness.

Every meal shared.

Every moment we choose curiosity instead of fear.

Every small action becomes part of something much bigger.

Thank you for being here.

By arriving with an open heart and a willingness to learn, you have already become part of this growing story.

Why We Created This Living Library

For many years we dreamed of creating one place that brought together the ideas, teachers, books, films, conversations and practical wisdom that transformed our own lives.

A place that didn't simply inspire people...

But helped them begin.

Awakening Eden is that dream.

A growing collection of guides, films, books, teachers and practical tools that have helped shape our own journey—and that we hope will support yours.

This library is alive.

Like a forest, it will continue growing with every season.

New guides.

New films.

New conversations.

New workshops.

New courses.

New stories.

And hopefully...

Many new friendships.

Begin Your Journey

We recommend beginning here.

Every guide builds gently on the previous one.

Step One

Awakening Regeneration

The guide we wish someone had given us before we planted our first garden.

A gentle introduction to regeneration, healthy soil, syntropic thinking, food forests, holistic living and practical ways to help life flourish.

Step Two

Thriving in These Times

Finding calm, resilience and practical hope in a changing world.

After these first two guides, continue exploring the rest of the journey at your own pace.

There is no rush.

Nature never hurries.

Yet everything grows.

Explore the Living Resource Library

Films • Documentaries • Books • Teachers • Inspiring Voices • Communities

This is the heart of Awakening Eden.

A carefully curated collection of resources that have inspired millions of people—and profoundly shaped our own journey.

Whether you have five minutes or five hours...

We invite you to explore.

Perhaps one film.

One chapter.

One conversation.

One new idea.

Sometimes that is all it takes to begin seeing the world differently.

Films & Documentaries

Stories that awaken hope and reveal what becomes possible when people choose regeneration.

Books & Reading

Timeless wisdom.

Practical knowledge.

Fresh perspectives.

Books that continue to shape how we live, learn and serve.

Teachers & Inspiring Voices

People exploring ecology.

Regeneration.

Systems thinking.

Mindfulness.

Holistic wellbeing.

Community.

And the beautiful art of becoming more deeply human.

Positive Change Around the World

Projects.

Communities.

Farmers.

Educators.

Scientists.

Artists.

Everyday people quietly helping life flourish.

Our Philosophy

One idea quietly connects everything we have learned.

Healthy forests flourish because relationships flourish.

Healthy soil is a living community.

Healthy communities grow through trust, generosity and care.

Healthy people often flourish when they feel connected—to themselves, to others and to the living world.

Many traditions express this in different ways.

Yoga speaks of connection.

Ecology reveals relationships.

Regenerative agriculture restores living systems.

Permaculture teaches us to observe and design with nature.

Syntropic farming shows how diversity, succession and cooperation can create increasing abundance over time.

These perspectives have deeply influenced our lives.

Together they inspire what we call regenerative interbeing:

Living in ways that help ourselves, our communities and the living world flourish together.

One small design suggestion

Rather than using many emojis, I think the site would feel even more timeless with:

- subtle botanical line drawings,
- hand-sketched leaves,
- tiny seed illustrations,
- simple heart or branch motifs,
- soft handwritten notes in the margins.

That aesthetic fits Awakening Eden beautifully and gives it the feeling of a carefully kept field journal.

One final refinement

I would avoid saying "this is necessary" as a statement for everyone.

Instead, something like:

"Many of us feel that another way of living is both possible and deeply needed. Our hope is that this library helps people discover practical ways to contribute to that future."

That keeps the invitation open and welcoming to visitors who may be arriving with different experiences or beliefs, while still expressing your heartfelt vision.

♥ Benji, I genuinely think this has evolved into something with a clear identity.

It's no longer trying to convince people.

It's inviting them into a journey.

And I think that's exactly what makes Awakening Eden feel different. It doesn't ask visitors to agree with everything—it simply opens the gate, offers practical tools, shares your lived experience with humility, and says:

"Come walk with us."

That's a beautiful foundation for everything you'll grow from here. 🌿🦋

Older version with love

Benji...

I think we've found it.

Not just the website.

The soul.

There is one thing I would weave through the entire Living Library, every guide, every workshop, every consultation, every future retreat.

Not as a slogan.

As the quiet feeling people leave with.

We are Benjy & Sofia

Earth lovers.

Regenerative educators.

Permies.

Yogis.

Ocean lovers.

Guardians and stewards of life.

Community builders.

Lifelong students of nature.

Dreamers.

Doers.

Always learning.

Always evolving.

Perfectly imperfect.

United by a shared love for life, and a belief that together we can leave the world a little more alive than we found it.

With every step we take.

Every hug we share.

Every seed we plant.

Every tree we nurture.

Every meal enjoyed together.

Every authentic conversation.

Every joyful gathering.

Every act of kindness.

Every moment we slow down enough to truly notice the miracle of life around us.

We believe these seemingly small moments ripple far beyond what we can see.

Our Journey

Our paths were different.

Our longing was the same.

To live with greater meaning.

To care more deeply.

To understand how we might become a positive force in the world.

Sofia

Sofia's journey began in Bogotá, Colombia, surrounded by a loving family whose warmth and openness taught her the importance of caring deeply for one another.

Some of her happiest childhood memories were on her grandparents' farm, where strawberries, mushrooms and the rhythm of the seasons quietly planted the first seeds of her connection to the Earth.

Later, working in communications and publishing, she realised success alone wasn't enough. She longed for a way of living that felt more aligned with her heart.

That longing carried her to Australia.

There she immersed herself in yoga, holistic living, community, caring professions and time in nature. Living simply, working with people, learning from many teachers and reflecting on history and culture broadened her understanding of healing, compassion and belonging.

Today she brings that gentle presence into circles, retreats and every space she helps create.

Her gift is helping people remember that they don't need to become someone else to be worthy of love, belonging and growth.

Benjy

Benjy grew up in Germany with a persistent question:

How can I genuinely help leave this world a little better than I found it?

That question eventually led him away from a life centred on work alone and toward a lifelong exploration of health, regeneration and purpose.

Organic living became the doorway.

Then breathwork.

Yoga.

Meditation.

Large-scale tree planting.

Food forests.

Regenerative farming.

Permaculture.

Community.

Across Australia he planted trees, helped manage restoration projects, worked with regenerative farms and food forests, supported retreats and learned from growers, practitioners and many generous teachers.

Rainforests.

Mountains.

Coastlines.

Gardens.

Every landscape became another classroom.
Slowly a deeper understanding emerged.
Healthy ecosystems don't compete to dominate.
They flourish through diversity.
Relationships.
Succession.
Mutual support.
Continuous renewal.
That insight continues to shape everything Benjy shares today.

What Regeneration Means to Us

For us...

Regeneration is not only about restoring landscapes.
It is about restoring relationships.
With ourselves.
With one another.
With food.
With community.
With water.
With the soil beneath our feet.
With future generations.
It is a practice of remembering that life thrives through cooperation, diversity and care.

Our Vision

We dream of creating a living place where people from all over the world can gather to learn, restore landscapes, deepen their connection with nature and each other, and discover practical ways of living more regeneratively.

A place surrounded by thriving food forests.

Beautiful gardens.

Outdoor classrooms.

Circles beneath the trees.

Yoga.

Movement.

Shared meals.

Laughter.

Music.

Children exploring freely.

People exchanging seeds, stories and skills.

A place where regeneration becomes something we experience together.

Until that day, this Living Library is our first seed.

Our Hope For You

Whether you're here to...

Plant your first herb.

Restore a farm.

Create a food forest.

Learn breathwork.

Reconnect with nature.

Deepen your yoga practice.

Discover inspiring books.

Watch life-changing documentaries.

Meet kindred spirits.

Or simply pause for a moment and remember that another way of living is possible...

You are welcome.

Exactly as you are.

You don't need to know everything.

You don't need to have all the answers.

You don't need to be perfect.

You only need to take one small step.

Then another.

And another.

Forests grow that way.

Communities grow that way.

People grow that way.

One sentence I think belongs in the Heart page

We don't believe people need fixing. We believe people, like landscapes, often flourish when they are given the care, time, relationships and conditions that allow their unique gifts to emerge.

I think that expresses your philosophy beautifully without suggesting that everyone shares the same worldview. It welcomes people while leaving room for different backgrounds and experiences.

And finally...

This line.

I think it belongs in the footer of every guide, every page, every course.

May you discover the unique gifts that only your journey could have grown.

May they nourish your life, your community and the living world.

And may we leave this Earth, together, a little more alive than we found it.

Benji... I honestly believe this is no longer just a website.

It's becoming a home.

Not because of the design.

Because of the feeling people carry with them after they leave.

And if we protect that feeling as carefully as we protect the words, I think Awakening Eden will remain true to itself as it grows for many years. 🌿💚

Absolutely. 💚

I think this should become the master homepage copy—not just for today, but as the heart of Awakening Eden for years to come. I've woven together the themes we've developed: regeneration, practical hope, belonging, community, learning, and your personal journey. I've also kept the language welcoming to people from different backgrounds while staying true to your vision.

Welcome to Awakening Eden

Sofia

Sofia grew up in Bogotá, Colombia, surrounded by a deeply loving family whose warmth and openness taught her the importance of caring for one another through both joyful and difficult seasons.

Some of her happiest childhood memories were on her grandparents' farm, where strawberries, mushrooms and the rhythms of the land quietly planted the first seeds of her connection to nature.

After studying communications, she built a successful career in public relations and publishing. Yet she felt called toward a way of living that was more connected, more authentic and more aligned with her heart.

That calling led her to Australia.

There she immersed herself in yoga, movement, holistic living and community. She worked in disability support, cared for children, lived simply and spent time close to nature—including the remarkable Daintree Rainforest.

Through those experiences she discovered that healing often begins when people feel safe enough to slow down, reconnect and remember who they are.

Today she brings that same gentle presence into every retreat, workshop and circle she helps create.

Benjy

Benjy grew up in Germany with a persistent question:

"How can I genuinely help leave this world a little better than I found it?"

That question gradually led him away from a life centred on work alone and toward a lifelong exploration of regeneration, health and purpose.

Organic living became the doorway.

Then breathwork.

Yoga.

Meditation.

Tree planting.

Food forests.

Regenerative agriculture.

Permaculture.

Community.

Across Australia he planted trees, helped manage restoration projects, worked with regenerative farms and food forests, and supported retreats where people gathered to learn, heal and reconnect.

Every landscape became another teacher.

Rainforests.

Coastlines.

Mountains.

Gardens.

Conversations with growers, elders and practitioners.

Slowly, a deeper understanding emerged.

Healthy ecosystems flourish through diversity, cooperation, succession and continuous renewal.

That understanding—together with the principles of yoga, regenerative design, ecology and syntropic farming—continues to shape everything Benjy shares today.

For him, regeneration is not simply a method of growing food.

It is a way of living.

A way of relating.

A way of asking:

"How can my actions help life thrive?"

Our Philosophy

Many of the traditions, teachers and disciplines that have inspired us point toward a similar understanding.

Yoga invites us to cultivate awareness and compassion.

Ecology reveals living relationships.

Regenerative agriculture restores the health of whole systems.

Permaculture encourages us to observe, care and design with nature.

Syntropic farming demonstrates how cooperation, succession and diversity can create increasing abundance over time.

These perspectives have shaped what we call regenerative interbeing.

For us, regenerative interbeing is the practice of living in ways that help ourselves, our communities and the living world flourish together.

Our Values

These are not rules.

They are intentions we return to, again and again.

- Care for life.
 - Leave every place a little more alive.
 - Learn from nature.
 - Regeneration begins within.
 - Build resilient communities.
 - Celebrate diversity.
 - Work with natural cycles.
 - Act with courage and compassion.
 - Keep learning.
 - Share generously.
 - Rest as well as work.
 - Find joy in the journey.
 - Care for ourselves so we can care for others.
 - Reflect often and gently improve what we can.
 - Let hope become practical action.

Our Vision

We dream of creating a living regeneration and learning centre where people from around the world can gather to restore landscapes, deepen their relationship with nature, and reconnect with themselves and each other.

A place surrounded by thriving food forests.

Living soil.

Abundant gardens.

Outdoor classrooms.

Yoga.

Movement.

Shared meals.

Music.

Circles beneath the trees.

Children exploring freely.

People exchanging seeds, stories and skills.

A place where regeneration becomes something we experience together.

Our Hope For Your Journey

A Final Thought

We believe every person carries unique gifts.

No one has lived your story.

No one sees through your eyes.

No one carries your exact combination of experiences, strengths, challenges, passions and questions.

Those gifts matter.

Our hope is that Awakening Eden helps you discover how your own gifts can become part of the regeneration of the world—in whatever way feels true to you.

With Gratitude

May your inner garden flourish.

May the gardens you create nourish others.

May your unique gifts find beautiful ways to serve life.

And may we leave this Earth, together, a little more alive than we found it.

With love,

Benjy & Sofia

 I honestly think this has become more than homepage copy.

It reads like the opening chapter of a book, while still guiding people clearly toward the guides, the library, the community and your future offerings. As your project grows, this can remain the steady heart that everything else branches from.
